MetLife representatives visited Washington, D.C. to take part in the 16th Annual MetLife-National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) Principal of the Year program. Established in 1993, the program honors middle school and high school principals for providing high-quality learning opportunities for students and for their exemplary contributions to their professions.

The program includes the Principals' Institute, which provides a venue for networking among top-performing principals. The honorees also had the opportunity to meet with members of Congress on Capitol Hill and advocate support of school leadership. In addition, an awards gala honored all the state principals, including the 2010 National Principal of the Year recipients, Dr. Sheila O'Shea Kahrs of Haymon-Morris Middle School, Winder, GA and Lucy Garrett Beckham of Wando High School, Mount Pleasant, SC.

MetLife Resources and Corporate Contributions jointly sponsor the highly regarded MetLife/NASSP National Principal of the Year program. Since its inception, honorees were selected from each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Department of Defense Education Activity, and the U.S. Department of State Office of Overseas Schools.
